ABOUT PATHWAYS PA

For more than 40 years, PathWaysPA has been helping low income women and families end the cycle of poverty, homelessness and abuse by helping them to move along the path to self-sufficiency.

Each year, PathWaysPA assists nearly 5,000 low income women, children, teens and individuals to achieve economic independence and family well-being through a unique combination of individual and community-based programs.

ENDING THE CYCLE OF ...

POVERTY

- PathWays PA helps more than 3,000 low-income individuals build financial assets through free income tax programs.
- PathWays PA's workforce development programs help people gain employment and advance in their careers.

HOMELESSNESS

- Each year PathWays PA helps nearly 90 runaway and homeless teen girls transition from homelessness to safe, permanent housing.
- PathWays PA's Center for Families helps to ensure that homeless children remain with their mothers.

ABUSE

- Project Peace provides education and in-home case management to help pregnant and parenting teens learn parenting skills to prevent their involvement in the child welfare system
- The Center for Families has helped to prevent the abuse of hundreds of children by helping homeless mothers build the parenting and life skills necessary to ensure the healthy development of their children.
